The above listed rules are no longer applicable, nor are they appropriate. These rules, among other things, prescribe lodging, meal and transportation expenses and information practices for Department of Environmental Quality employees. It is inappropriate for the Department of Environmental Quality to have rules pertaining to these procedural issues as these types of expense allowances are determined by the Wyoming Legislature through statute and administered by the State Auditors Office. A state agency should not promulgate its own rules on these matters. The Department of Environmental Quality now provides guidance to its employees on these procedures through statewide and department specific policy documents. Therefore, the Department of Environmental Quality is proposing to repeal each of the above listed Chapters and all rules contained within them.

Attached is the complete text of listed Chapters as filed with the Wyoming Secretary of State. Please note that the entire contents of each Chapter is proposed for repeal. However, to improve readability

- 2. The repeal of these rules and regulations are necessary and appropriate as no Agency authority existed for the original filing of these rules.
