Dear Mr. Green:

The rules of practice and procedure for designation of property as very rare or uncommon presume that the matter will be handled in the same fashion as a rule making, not as a contested case matter, and as such, there is not an issue with ex parte communications. The council staff and the presiding officer were directly involved in the preparation of the public notice. The notice was approved by the presiding officer on August 24, 2010. Because of the informal manner in which rule makings are handled, there is not a formal process by which the notice is approved other than through the review of the notice by the staff and presiding officer and the approval given to the petitioner either verbally or through an informal letter or email.

Attached is the email to the petitioner letting him know the notice was approved by the Presiding Officer.

Sincerely,

James Ruby
Executive Secretary
